

Is your kitchen a regular turkish bath?

Does the steamy heat in your kitchen make you feel hot and sticky and listless? Does the steam in the bathroom leave everything wringing wet? Then don't put up with it a moment longer than you have to: let an Xpelair Extractor Fan rescue you and your family from all this unpleasantness.

An Xpelair Fan fitted in the window whisks away steam, cooking smells, fumes, grease and grime at the pull of a switch. Your house is healthier, and the decorations stay clean longer.

A 6" model, suitable for the average size kitchen and bathroom (800/1,000 cu. ft.) costs under £11 — a 9" model is available for larger rooms. Both complete with switch and automatic draughtproof shutters which close the fan off completely when it's not in use. Fitting can be done by a handy husband or by your electrician.

See the Xpelair Extractor Fan at your local Electrical Contractor or Electricity Board Showroom — or post coupon for free colour brochure to: — Xpelair Div., Woods of Colchester Ltd., 414 Chelwick High Rd., London, W4.
